Bancassurance in Europe | SpringerLink

The first use of the term bancassurance was in France, where cooperation between banks and insurance companies started earlier than in other European countries. This word was originally coined to indicate the simple distribution of insurance products by bank branches, while now it is used to describe all kinds of relationships between the banking and the insurance industries.

The Development of Bancassurance in Europe | SpringerLink

Bancassurance, the provision of policies by banks or lending institutions, represents one of the most significant changes to have occurred in the insurance industry over recent years. This practice originated in France in the mid-1980s, and spread rapidly, particularly in Europe, Australia, and emerging markets; however, it is applied heterogeneously around the world.
