"The lines of work... ..divide broadly into employments bent to one's own purpose and those bound to a purpose other than one's own." (p. 14) In America's founding "The newfound land and its newfound independence both were to be cultivated by employments bent to purposes of the individual...".

Lapham's Quarterly: Lines of Work by Lewis H. Lapham
I met Pierre Curie for the first time in the spring of the year 1894. I was then living in Paris where for three years I had been studying at the Sorbonne. I had passed the examinations for the licentiate in physics and was preparing for those in mathematics. At the same time I had begun to work in the research laboratory of Professor Lippmann.
